- Book: A Colony in a Nation by Chris Hayes
- Book: How to Be an Antiracist by Ibram X. Kendi
- Resource: Ring Theory by Susan Silk

Dr. Tichiana Armah’s recommended books & resources:

  A social science must read to learn more about what can be done differently in schools and work environments so more have the opportunity to succeed. This book teaches about concepts like stereotype threat and more.

  Psychiatry specific data which goes beyond race as well

  A clear history of why black people are disproportionately imprisoned in the US. A must read for all.

  Paperback book, but also a free online searchable book for any study on the health and healthcare disparities. Though written in 2002, little has changed for black Americans specifically. This book gives the evidence for those disparities still present in America.

The article Dr. Armah spoke on which was sparked 5 years ago by the shootings of unarmed black men. It details some facts about the current state of Black America, highlights areas in need of improvement, and why including the harms of promoting colorblindness.

Owned is a fever dream vision into the dark history behind the US housing economy. Tracking its overtly racist beginnings and its unbridled commoditization, the film exposes a foundational story that few Americans understand as their own. We suggest viewing with your community or agency and discuss the action steps to help address the result of systemic racism and how to dismantle it.
